* The two letters here listed with a conjectured date in March 1927 were written on a single day. Together they constitute "Series II" of the ten so-called "Great War" letters (GWL) as published in Lewis's Collected Letters, vol. 3, pp. 1596-1646; the other eight GWLs constitute "Series I". In using this arrangement, Walter Hooper followed Lionel Adey's 1978 book on the subject. The different dating for the "Series II" letters used in the present survey is based on (a) Barfield's quotation from a letter which is recognizable as GWL II/2 and which Barfield remembered as having received "not long before" the letter published as GWL I/1; (b) a psychological plausibility of "Series II" originating soon after Lewis's last surviving diary notes (February-March 1927); (c) an absence of evidence either
